- SEE OFFICE ACTION ON THE FOLLOWING PAGES -

1. The rejection of claim 3 under 35 U.S.C. § 112 have been withdrawn due to applicant's amendment filed 12/28/98.
2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code § 102(e) and 103 (a) not included in this action can be found in a prior Office Action.
3. Claims 1-4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as being anticipated by Butts et al (Butts) patent no. 5,754,830.
4. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Butts et al (Butts) patent no. 5,754,830.
5. Butts was cited as prior art in the last office action. The rejections are respectfully maintained and incorporated by reference as set forth in the last office action.
6. In the remarks, applicant argued in substance that
 - (A) Prior art does not teach "two separate communications channels wherein one of them is a direct connection from the terminal to the host" as recited in present claim 1;

As to point (A), the limitation is not in claimed language; therefore, it is not being considered.

(B) Prior art does not teach "decode each screen of information at the terminal and then transmit the decoded screen ID to a remote server in order to have the remote server specify the GUI presentation for such screen" as recited in present claim 3;

As to point (B), the limitation is not in claimed language; therefore, it is not being considered.

(C) Prior art does not teach "a data structure indicative of the cursor position and other screen information is assembled and transmitted to the server. The server then interprets such information in order to send back context sensitive display information to the terminal" as recited in present claim 4;

As to point (C), Butts teaches user can select an uniform resource locator (URL) displayed on screen by using a cursor and transmit to the web/emulation server. The server then interprets the selection and download an applet code to allow user access to legacy host system via 3270, 5250, NVT, and VT220 type terminal emulation (col. 5 line 65 - col. 6 line 27).
